

<https://www.cnn.com/videos/politics/2020/03/30/trump-coronavirus-acosta-question-sot-vpx.cnn/video/playlists/this-week-in-politics/>

This link is to a video of a CNN reporter asking President Trump about what he has to say to Americans who are upset with how he initially handles the Covid-19 response by downplaying its significance. President Trump responded to the reporter's question by saying that he wants to keep the country from panicking and that the virus is going away, and will go away, and that America will have a great victory. Trump then says the reporter and CNN are trying to incite fear and that is why no one wants to watch them. Trump says that he could create a lot more fear than CNN ever could if he really wanted to, but he does not want that. He then says he could make CNN look "like a minor league player" if he really wanted to panic the American people. We think it is ridiculous that even in times of a global crisis, Trump is still trying to prove that he is better than everyone else, even if it is inducing panic.